Chamberlain is Termed a "Judas" -- Col. San-derson Gets a Black Eye-Dr. Tan-ner Arrives Too Late for the Melee.

By Telegrap's to The Times. LONDON, July 27.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) There was a regular riot in the House of Comnons tonight, the scenes there enacted being unprecedented in par-liamentary bistory. At 10 o'clock this evening, the closure in the debate in committee on the Home-rule Bill was to be applied. The early part of the evening was tame enough, being occupied by obscure members. At 9:45 o'clock Jeseph Chamberlair arose to deliver the final broadside of the opposition. He was still smarting under the lash administered by Gladstone Tuesday evening, and spoke with much bitterness, giving his opinion of the closure as applied by the government. He was frequently interrupted by the jeers from the Irish, and cheers from his own side. After one period of interrup-tion he proceeded: "The Prime Min-ister calls 'black,' and his adherents say it is good. He calls 'white' and they say it is better. It is always the voice of God. Never, since the time of Herod, has there been such Chamberlain got no further for, with his half finished reference to Herod, there came from the National-ists such a roar of indignation as has not been heard in the Commons since the time of Parnell. Cham-berlain was plainly startled, but tried to talk on. His voice was inaudible.

T. P. O'Connor sprang to his seat and, leaning toward Chamberlain, shouted "Judas" so loudly that it was heard throughout the house.

The rest of the Irishmen took up the cry, and for half a minute shouted "Judas" in chorus. When the clock "Judas" in chorus. When the clock struck 10, Chairman Mellor tried to put the closure, but his voice could not be heard. Then he gave the cus-tomary directions, but several Conservatives shouted that he must first call O'Connor to order for calling Cham-berlain names.

Mellor protested that he had not heard the epithets in question. Then everybody started for the front bench, the Unionists shouting "Gag!" Others struggled in the aisles or between the benches with Radical, Liberal or Irish antagonists, John Loven, Liberal, sen antagonists. John Logan, Liberal, ran down to the first opposition bench and began upbraiding Edward Carson, Tory. Wyndham and Fisher jumped Tory. Wyndham and Fisher jumped to Carson's assistance, seized Logan by the neck and threw him to the floor, head first, and bundled him under the bench. Somebody smashed Tim Healy's high hat over his eyes, and, as soon as Tim got it off he jumped into the aisle in fighting posture, just as Hanbury was trying to get past. A free fight then broke out at the gangway, led by William Redmond, Parnellite, who pushed over Col. Sanderson, champion of the Ulsterites. Chairman Mellor sent for Speaker Peel, and. that gentleman arrived, several servatives pointed to Gladstone and ex-claimed, "There sits the author of it all." Absolute quiet was restored as Speaker Peel, stern and dignified, took the chair. Gibbs made a complain about Chamberlain being called "Judas" by O'Connor. Ey Telegraph to The Times.

BANGKOK, July 27.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The French fleet gave notice of the blockade today, all outgoing vessels being warned to clear by Saturday, or be tied up. The blockade will extend along the entire north coast of the gulf. There is little doubt among foreigners that it is the intention of France to make Slam a French colony, and, unless England intervenes, there is little hope that the French will desist from extreme measures, although it is well known to them that the government of Siam is exceedingly anxious to avoid war.

REPORTED SETTLED.

The Situation, as it Appears to English Statesmen.

LONDON, July 27.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The Pall Mall Gazette says this evening that it learns from high authority that the Franco-Siamese difficulty has been settled. France agreed to accept Siam's proposals and abandon the claims to the erritory between the 18th and 23d parallels.

In the House of Lords this evening Roseberry announced that he could not make a full statement regarding the Siamese matter until a report was received from Lord Dufferin in Paris. From the outset Great Britain had confined itself to providing for the safety of British lives and interests in Bangkok. It had, from the beginning, avoided giving advice to Slam beyond occasions when asked for it, but had urged her to make terms as quickly as possible with her powerful neighbor. Nevertheless, the British government was not indifferent to the events now passing in Siam. Her great commer-cial interests there would be looked

The blockade might raise some ques-tions of international law, but Great Britain was, not yet formally advised of it, and perhaps the necessity might be averted. The government was glad to believe that France was no less alive than Great Britain to the value of Slamese independence, regarding it as a matter of importance that France and Great Britain should not have co-terminous frontiers, because that would involve great military expenditures and create a liability of a panic. In the Commons Sir Edward Grey made a similar statement.

The Standard's Paris correspondent gathers that Develle and Dufferin have agreed to a compromise on the fron-tier. Sir Charles Dilke said this evening he believed Dufferin and Develle had reached an agreement by which France would abandon her claims to the upper Mekong.

Great Loss of Life.

PANAMA, July 27.—Telegrams today confirm the report of the capture of Managua, Nicaragua, by the revolutionists. There was hard fightine, and great loss of life on both sides. Thirty-six Days in the Midst of Flames.

The British Ship Cederbank Arrives at San Francisco-Part of the Cargo Jetti-soned-The Pumps Kept Going Night and Day.

By Telegraph to The Times.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 27.—(By the Associated Press.) A battle with flames lasting thirty-six days was ended tonight by the arrival of the British ship Cedarbank from Newcastle, N. S. W. The vessel started March 3, and was laden with coal. She had a fair voyage until June 29, when the cargo was discovered to be on fire.

Prompt efforts were made to extinguish the flames, but proved unavailing. It was decided to jettison a portion of the cargo, and 260 tons were thrown overboard; then, owing to the extreme heat in the hold and the great difficulty in handling the burning coal, it was necessary to desist.

It was necessary to desist.

Large quantities of water were thrown into the hold, the pumps part of the time going day and night. On July 16 two explosions occurred, and the flames burst out and ran all over the hold. The hatches were kept buttened down as much as possible. The crew were obliged, on account of the heat, to abendon their quarters in the forecastle and go aft. The boats were forecastle and go aft. What Caused the Depreciation of Silver.

LOS ANGELES, July 25, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) In a communication to your paper of this date, the writer in effect asserts that the proposition that the depreciation in value of silver has been owing, or principally owing, to its demonetization in this country and in Europe is a reckless statement, and seems to intimate that other arguments and assertions made by bimetallists are of a similar character. This at all events is very strongly asserted by the gold press generally, and is perhaps a very common opinion among the advocates of the single gold standard. It may be of interest, therefore, to know that the opinion is also held by political economists of the highest reputation who are opposed to the double standard; and this information may be readily obtained by referring to the pages of the Encyclopedia Britantic the political comments of the pages of the Encyclopedia Britantic the political comments of the coricusion reached by him is, that "the result of the close investigations to which all aspects of the question were subjected was to show that the increased production of silver was only a minor element in causing its depreciation. The policy pursued by several States-viz. (1) Germany and the Scandinavian States, in adopting a single gold standard; (2) the countries composing the Latin Union, in limiting the coinage of silver; (3) the Indian government, by adopting a new method of drawing bilis-proved to be the really influential causes for the declining the coinage of silver; (3) the Indian government, by adopting a new method of drawing bilis-proved to be the really influential causes for the declining the coinage of silver; (4) the Indian government, by adopting a new method of drawing bilis-proved to be the really influential causes on the declining the coinage of silver; (4) the Indian government, by adopting a new method of drawing by adopting a new method of drawing by adopting a new method of drawing by adopti the celebrated report of the English parliamentary commission in 1876, and the distinguished political writer, Mr. Bagheot.

The same concluson is reached by Mr.
del Mar, author of "A History of the Precious Metals," in the article on "Silver," though it is thus somewhat differently expressed:

"The closure of the mints of all important commercial countries to silver, while they have remained open to the free colnage of gold at a fixed valuation, has of the commodities, about one-fourth; the price commodities, about one-fourth; the price of uncoined silver being usually quoted in gold, this phenomenon, appears as a "fail of silver," by which term it is commonly known. This alleged fall, its causes, consequence and remedies, constitute the silver question."

It may be added that Mr. Fawcett, in his standard work on political economy, in the chapter on "The Depreciation of the Value of Silver," ascribes the depreciation to the same causes.

Nor can there be an artional doubt as the control of the commodities, is determined by the relation of supply and demand. But the value of silver, as of gold and all other commodities, is determined by the relation of supply and demand. But the principal demand for silver is for use as money, and it is apparent that, when nearly all the countries in Europe cease to use it for that purpose, the demand in the Western world is "almost entirely" destroyed.
This obvious cause of the depreciation of silver is altogether ignored by your correspondent.

The action of the product of silver to far less than that of gold. The proportion of the product of silver to far less than that of gold. The proportion of the product of silver used in the arts is estimated, in the article on "Silver" cited, to be from two-thirds to threefourths of the production, or, combined with the exportation to the East, four fifths.

Taking this and other facts bearing upon the question into consideration, it is with the exportation to the fifths. Taking this and other facts bearing Taking this and other facts bearing upon the question into consideration, it is upon the facts bearing the facts of Taking this and other facts bearing upon the question into consideration, it is hardly possible that the increased production of silver could, in the absence of its demonetization, have had any considerable effect on the value of silver in relation to gold. This is proven by the fact that the far more extensive increase included the fact that the far more extensive increase followed the fact that the far more gold in California and Australia— amounting to more than the total stock previously existing in the world—had but a very slight effect in depreciating its value with reference to silver. Had gold been the only currency, as is now advocated, it would have been depreciated in purchasing power at least 50 per cent. But, as is observed by the basts of the double standard, then in use in most of the countries of Europe, and in this country, was to check this tendency; so that the actual depreciation in purchasing power was only about 20 per cent.; and this, by the operation of the double standard, extended to silver as well as to gold; and the depreciation of gold, with reference to silver, was very slight.

The silver was very slight.

The silver was not in effect, of the silver was very slight.

The silver was not in effect, of the silver was very slight.

The strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the fact of the strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the fact of the strange question put by your correspondent, who, after remarking that the fact of the scalabled ratio of 16 to 1 the silver dollar, being of more value than the gold dollar, was not, in effect, circulated in this country, asks: "What good mines?"

fated in this country, asks: "What good did free coinage do the country or the mines?"

The answer is very obvious. So long as the free coinage of silver, even at the ratio of 1 to 16, continued in this country, it stood as an impregnable barrier against any depreciation of silver below do such an extent as to make the silver to such an extent as to make the silver dollar of less value than the gold, it would have immediately displaced from the circulaton in this country the gold currency, and the paper currency pay, able in gold, and vould, thus, have constituted the whole currency of the country. Hence, there must at once have arisen a demand for at least one builton of dollars in silver—a demand that could it was impossible for silver to face, it is hardly probable that it would have fallen helow the French ratio of 1 to 15½. Another evil resulting from the demonetization of silver by the United States was that it compelled France and the other countries of the Latin League, and ultimately the Indian government, to limit the free coinage of silver, and the abandonment of the last line of defences in the great war that was being waged by the creditor class against silver, and consequently against the interests and che rights of the balance of mankind. Yours very truly,

The other day a couple of very little boys were passing the Chicago and Al-ton office, on Spring street, when one of them espied the sample reclining chair which is exhibited there to show chair which is exhibited there to show how sumptuously the Alton's passen gers ride, and he asked Agent Stimson of the Judson excursions if the place was a dentist office. Mr. Stimson said yes, and asked if the little fellow wanted a tooth pulled. The lad did, and, showing a "baby" tooth, hanging to his gums, got into the chair. The excursion agent produced a thread and, in the good old-fashioned way, relieved the little boy, who stood the operation bravely.

Yesterday's game at Athletic Park attracted but a meager audience. Considering the excellent playing of Wednesday it was thought the "fans" would show up more numerously, but it seems baseball has received a setback in this neighborhood, from which it is not easy to receive.

this neighborhood, from which it is not easy to recover.

Reports from the East show a marked revival in the sport this year, with increased audiences in nearly every city. The California league, or this part of it, seems to be suffering from some cause not obvious. This is all the more in-East. There is some reason for all this, and it behooves those who are this, and it behooves those who are interested to seek a remedy.

Prof. Fanning again appeared in his grand impersonation of an umpire on the field of action. The professor is a positive success when it comes to distinguishing between balls and strikes. Before he attained his present high position he was himself a pleblan pitcher, and his accession has been too feecher to dull his sympathies for those position he was himself a pleblan pitcher, and his accession has been too recent to dull his sympathies for those who still earn their living by the sweat of their brows and the speed of their arms. Consequently, both Borchers and Griffith fared well at his hands yesterday. At bases, however, the professor was somewhat "off," to use a popular expression, and the few perspiring "fans" on the bleachers were not backward in telling him so. Even the players themselves registered a few kicks now and then, but the professor preserved his equanimity and succeeded in getting through the game without enriching the managerial coffers through the agency of fines.

But, leaving such small matters as unsatisfactory decisions aside, the professor earned his paltry $5 per diem yesterday. To see him hopping back and forth is itself worth the price of admission, and to hear that manly voice of his call a bail or a strike ought to be worth two bits extra. And yet there was something lacking. It must be that white flannel suit which enfolded the form and the polica-dotted cap that surmounted, the head of his illustrious predecessor, the now absent but not forgotten Jim McDonald.

Between the two bitchers, Borchers and Griffith, there was little choice yesterday. Both were fairly effective.

Mr. "Hunky" Hines carried off the batting honors of the day, although Hutchinson of the home team was a close second. Hines was four times at bat, made three base hits and scored four runs. Hutchinson is credited with a single, double and triple out of four times at bat, but was not so fortunate in the scoring, not being able to cross the plate once.

The first inning resulted in a standoff for both clubs. Wright for the Angels sent the ball skating toward third, where it hit the bag and bounded off. Rasty landed safe at first and was walked to second on McCauley's base on balls. Mutchinson is uncession, at which remarkable feat the small crowd of onlowers cheered. Mr. Befrehers in succession, at which remarkable feat the small crowd of oliook

Then McGucken followed with a Texas leaguer. Hines ripped out a two-bagger, which sent Irwin across the plate. Earl's hit scored McGucken and Hines, and Hernon's three-bagger counted a run for Mr. Earl. Hernon was put out at the plate, but questioned the umpire's decision. Prof. Fanning stood firm, however, and Mr. Hernon is not credited with a run in the official score. In the fourth, both sides played ball again, and neither made a run. In the fifth, the Angels succumbed to a double play and an umpire's decision, while the Colonels, in their turn, did some hitting to the tune of three times, which netted them one run.

The Angels now encountered some of some hitting to the tune of three times, which netted them one run.

The Angels now encountered some of that hard luck for which they had been famous recently. McCauley was put out at first, after which Hutchinson got to third on a hit near the zanja. Glenatin was given base on balls, and Lytle flew out to Earl, who made a brilliant back-handed catch. Then Hulen was given base on balls, thus filling the bags. Lohman then came to bat, and great things were expected of him. He lifted the ball to a spot between right field and the carriage entrance, and for awhile it looked very much like a two-bagger and three men in. But McGucken, with lightning speed, ran to meet the ball, and—met it, thus outing the side. Many people call this hard luck, but some say it's good playing on the part of the other fellows. The bleachers evidently were of the latter opinion, for they cheered McGucken when he came in from the field.

In the seventh, the Colonels made another run. Hines singled, and reached second on Collopy's fit. He came home on a wild throw.

In the eighth, neither side scored, but in the Angel's half of the ninth, Griffith fell down a little bit, and three hits netted three earned runs. But it was too late in the game to do any good.

The Sight of Aguilar Too Much for Mrs. Richards.

The preliminary examination of Mrs. Mary F. Richards, who is charged with having threatened to kill her husband, D. S. Richards, was begun in Justice Seaman's court yesterday.

against her husband.

It was also stated that Mrs. Richards had received rather undue attention from Antonio Aguilar, who, it will be remembered, shot her husband at Second and Los Angeles streets some time ago, and for which he was recently convicted in the Superior Court.

Richards, when placed on the stand, testified that on one occasion when he galled to see his children his wife raised an ax and threatened to strike him with it. Aguilar was at the house at the time, and when he (Richards) went away his wife informed him that if he ever called again he (Richards) would be shot.

Aguilar had been subpoenaed and was brought into the courtroom by a constable late in the afternoon. At sight of him Mrs. Richards fainted, which caused a good deal of excitement.

Balliff Appel dashed some water in her face and she was soon brought to consclousness.

The Coming G.A.R. Encampment—A Venetian Fete.

A visit to the encampment grounds of the G.A.R. at Burton Mound disclosed quite extensive improvements being made for the encampment, which meets Tuesday. Many veterans are already in attendance and camping on the grounds. Fifty more tents arrived Wednesday and will be erected at once. Mr. Gorham, of the Santa Barbara fumber Company, has presented the encampment with a fine fitty-foot flag pole to be raised in the center of the grounds. The new fife and drum corps made its first appearance on the streets Wednesday evening for a practice march, and showed good training. The grounds are ideally situated near the ocean, with hot and cold sulphur springs right on the grounds, where rheumatic veterans can bathe and be healed. The grounds are in fine order, and nothing the encampment, which meets Tuesday. matic veterans can bathe and be nealed. Mr. Eaton's residence and grounds are among the finest in Southern Calitor-nia, and the moonlight fete is being looked forward to with great interest.

The new residence of Mr. Coux on Carrillo street is well under way and is very handsome. Dr. Otto's new house is enclosed and the large buildings of the Montecito Manufacturing Company in Moutecito are being roofed.

The Midwinter Fair at San Francisco is an absorbing topic of conversation here just now. It is not known what effect the passing of subscription papers will have on the ardor.

Few people stop to consider in what fast age we are living, that celerity of action—a quickness of accomplish-ing desired results, is the paramount thing aimed at today in almost every department of human effort. A Doctor Factory.

An instance of the free and easy manner in which doctors are some times turned out in this country was furnished last week in New York when Dr. Walter May Reid was ar rested and lodged in fail for selling bogus diplomas conferring the title of M. D. upon persons utterly ignorant of medicine and turning them loose on the world to destroy human lives. Dr. Reid is not a sharp young schemer but a gray-haired, expert linguist, poet, novelist and a graduate of the Medical College of the Univerversity of New York. The doctor was entrapped by a reporter for the Herald, who worked hard on the case and finally caused his arrest.

After four interviews with Dr. Reid, notwithstanding the reporter's frank confession that he was a complete ignoramus in respect to medicine, he received from his hands a diploma of the Preparatory Medical College of New York, certifying in Latin, over the doctor's signature, and an impressive red seal, that upon examination it had been proved that he was worthy to be received as a physician among physicians. The document falsely declared that he had studied medicine for three years, and that his final examination had been "regulated by the usual standing for the M. D.

The manager of this doctor factory had, however, some consciention scruples. He said to the reporter: "I like my students to know the muscles. There are only about forty You need to know less than that in You need to know less than that in fact. Before cutting into a patient you ought to know the more prominent parts of the body. If you should cut the smaller things by accident they don't count much, but by all means become familiar with the prominents. ent muscles and arteries wrote to him:

Later, in sending the new-made doctor a blank death certificate, Reid wrote to him:

"A health officer in each city supplies death certificates more or less identical with the enclosed. When I say that the diagnosis of 40 per cent. of death certificates are guesses, hazarded on insufficient data, and are very often errors before the control of roneous, you need not be much afraid to hazard a guess also. Wishing you all success, I am, dear doctor, etc." Such disclosures as this, which one

This man Reid told diploma for $20, no matter what he knew or did not know about medicine The American people, as a rule, are too busy making money to be able to pay any attention to such matters as these. After infringing on the laws of health for years, they naturally find themselves breaking down one day. when they rush off to the nearest office that sports a shingle with M.D. after a man's name, and place their bodies in his charge, to handle as he pleases, with the touching confidence that an infant exhibits in its mother when it runs to her with a cut finger If the man gets well, the doctor, of course, saved his; life, and the grateful patient signs a declaration to that effect,

If the man dies, it is an act of Providence, and, the Al-mighty being above censure, nobody is to blame. However, if the average American

There is altogether too much looseness in the practice of medicine in There should be one general law on this subject for the whole United States, so that a blacksmith in nnecticut cannot pass as a doctor in California.

Alisplaced Charity. Charity is an excellent thing, but charity indiscriminately applied does much harm. The worthy poor-in America at least-are not found among those who accost one at street corners or back doors. There is a class of men in all our large cities who make a good living by imposing on the kind-heartedness of American house-wives. Two of these gentry are working a little game in Los Angeles today. One of them goes to a house in his shirt-sleeves, and in a whining voice asks the lady of the house if she could not let a poor man have an Abject poverty is so exceptional here that, in two cases out of three, he gets what he wants; then, if the lady will take the trouble to look down to the next street corner, she may notice the unfortunate man's side partner loaded up with a big bundle of cast-off garments, which the precious pair will dispose of that evening for a This is an easy way goodly sum. to make a living, and beats working on the roads in July at $2 a day, but is not one of the infant industries which deserves encouragement.

There are organizations in all our large cities which deal with the deserving poor. Those who desire to disburse charity should either make their donation through these channels, or else carefully investigate each case themselves.

Another Suggestion.

Here is another prescription for the orevailing financial malady. The docfor in this case is a doctor of medicine

Let Congress pass a law prohibiting the issue of paper currency of de-nominations less than $10, and make it unlawful to pass such currency after, say, six months. This will give the Eastern and Southern States the same system now and heretofore largely in use in California, thus making room for at least $400,000,000 in silver coin. This would raise the value of silver to that of gold, and with that accom-plished, the Sherman law would cut no figure.

"Then a law should be passed requiring the Secretary of the Treasury to fix on the first of each month the export duty on gold for the month, so that the country would not be depleted of gold. This would, of course, amount to a declaration of financial independence of all Europe, and could be surely maintained by the United States against ll opposition."

We glean from the columns of the Arizona Republican the statement that considerable interest is felt in that Territory in our coming Midwinter Fair. The editor of the Republican looks upon it as a grand opportunity for advertising the resources of Arizona, and urges upon its readers the importance of being awake to the advantages which it will offer for advertising their fruit interests and other resources. Arizona is well known for its mineral wealth, but its horticultural wealth has not been so well advertised. The op-portunity at our fair to let the world know what it has accomplished in this direction will be an excellent one, and its people should avail themselves of it. Nor should the people of this State be less alive to the importance and value of the opportunity which this fair will af-ford to every section of this great com-monwealth of proclaiming its resources and the wealth of its productions. Southern California is not less interested in the success of the fair than is San Francisco and the whole northern portion of the State. If our claims to climatic wealth and an inexhaustible richness of soil are supported by the logic of our varied productions, it will be an unanswerable argument on our behalf. Let Southern California speak eloquently through her exhibits, and present to the world the convincing logic of results. from time to time, make one

The San Francisco Stock Exchange has adopted a resolution which may have the effect of reviving that mori-bund institution, and also of increasing the development of gold mining in Cali fornia. During the next thirty days, gold mines can be listed on the exchange without paying the customary fee of $500. In this connection, it may be noticed that there are a number of promising gold mines in Southern Cali-fornia, especially around Acton, Perris, and at the new Vanderbilt camp. A party of capitalists recently arrived at Perris to examine the Good Hope and other mines there. One day, Southern California will have a mining boom.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

Reaping the Whiriwind.
SANTI ANA, July 22, 1893.—(To the Editor of The Times.) It has now been nearly nine months since it was known that Grover Cleveland was elected President, and the Democratic party had received a vote of confidence at the ballot-box, but from is not with elects as dire as those of '73,

The columns of our papers are filled with the records of failures. Hanks are closed, railroad building stopped, mines are shut down, the wheels of industry are still, and financial wreck and gloom are on every hand. Last week there were 324 failures, and the present will show an increase.

What is the cause of the present condition of things? There is just as much money in the country as there was last year; there is as great a demand for the ordinary products of labor; humanity is just as hangry, and can consider as much as then, but the great centers of industry are idle, and a hundred thousand men have been added to the army of "tramps," seeking a chance to earn a living. The answer seems to me to be very plain.

First—The Democratic party promised the people "the earth and the fullness thereof" in case it was entrusted with power. It pointed to the election of Clevelland in 1884 and the subsequent "boom" which swept like a tempest over the country, and many were foolish enough to believe the "fush times" of that period were due to the success of "the man of destiny." It howled about the "robber tariff" and pledged itself to rip it both up and down until thousands of unthinking Republicans were lured after false gods of "reform" and the Democracy was elected to supreme control. But while these specious promises won half a million of Republican voters from their allegiance, they have not won the promised prosperity. Capital, that usually seeks employment in the great industrial enterprises of our land, became alarmed and refused to embark in anything over which hung the menace of the Chicago platform. Money that was offered in abundance before the 8th day of November, 1892, could not be obtained at all two days after. They preferred to hoard their millions rather than embark them in enterprises over which hung suspended the threat of the party succeeding to power.

Mr. Editor, there is no sentiment nor patriotism in hoarded wealth—it never thrilled with a noble imp our investors decline to put their money into your enterprise."

We realized then most fully that we were beginning to reap the wnirlwind, and the wreck of eleven strong banks in Denver on last Tuesday shows that the whirlwind has become a veritable cyclone. This fear of the future action of the present administration has not only locked out $500,000, which would have been put in circulation among the people of Orange county, but it has locked up more than $500,000,000 which would have sought profitable employment in other industrial lines in every city and town in our nation.

which would have sought profitable employment in other industrial lines in every city and town in our nation.

Our beet-sugar company has been hard at work trying to overcome the disastrous revolution of November, and we hope that success is at last reasonably sure.

We have just consummated a contract with the great sugar-factory builders, E. H. Dyer & Co. of Cleveland, O., -to erect us a sugar factory and refinery of a capacity of 330 tons per day, and to have the same complete and ready for the campaign of 1894; the entire plant to cost about $375,000. But even yet the shadow of fear hangs over us, notwithstanding the partial failure of the sugar-beet crop in Europe and the marked advance in the price of sugar, for we could not get the signatures of these gentlemen to this contract, and necessary bond for its fulfillment, without this proviso:

"Provided, if the present Congress shall by its legislation render the manufacture of sugar from sugar beets unprofitable, then this contract to be void and of no effect."

So you see, Mr. Editor, we are yet "be-seffect."

So you see, Mr. Editor, we are yet "between the devil and the deep sea." While the air is thick with the crash of failures the unemployed are having their ranks augmented; great and valuable industries are paralyzed, and this grand American nation of 65,000,000 is waiting to see what the action of Mr. Cleveland and his followers will be. If they dare to carry into effect the iconoclastic threats of their platform there will be 1,000,000 men, out of employment before the 1st of January next. If there is patriolism enough in the next. If there is patriotism enough in the ranks of the Democracy outside of Wall street to meet the requirements of our time this great industry of sugar pro-duction, now in its infancy,—and which has cost millions to develop, can be firmly established, and we shall be emancipated from dependence, on foreign sugar. We will give employment to a million of labor-ers and keep at home $150,000,000 in gold which is now annually sent abroad to pay ers and keep at noise $1.0,000,000 in gold which is now annually sent abroad to pay for this one staple. The bounty should be maintained until the industry is established, or if repealed, a duty of at least 2 cents per pound should be placed on imported sugar, that being the duty before the "McKinley" tariff was enacted. There are more than one million acres of the best are more than one million acres of the best sugar-beet land in the world in California, and all we want is an opportunity to estab-lish and develop the industry. We can-not enter into competition with the cooli-labor of the Sandwich Islands and the West labor of the Sandwich Islands and the West Indies at $6 per month, for our American laborers must have fair remuneration, and Mr. Gird has been paying a small army of them in his beet fields at Chino $25 per month and board. Every incentive of pride and patriotism should demand that our sugar industry be preserved. H. A. PIERCE.

An answer has been delayed by my absence at Chicago. You clearly and correctly state the history of that act. The bill that passed the House provided for the purchase of $4,500,000 worth of silver at gold value. The Senate struck out this provision and provided for the free coinage of silver, or the purchase of all that was offered at the rate of 129 cents an ounce.

"As conferrees, acting for the two houses, it was our duty to bring about an agreement, if practicable, without respect to individual opinion. The result of the conference to reject free coinage and to provide for the purchase of 4,500,000 ounces of silver at its gold price—a less amount than was proposed by the House—the provisions declaring the public policy of the United States to maintain the parity of the two metals, the authority to stipu-United States to maintain the parity of the two metals, the authority to stipulate in contracts for payments in gold, the limit of the issue of treasury notes to the actual cost of silver buillon at gold value, and the repeal of the act providing for the senseless coinage of silver dollars when we already had 300,000,000 silver dollars in the treasury that we could not circulæte, were all in the line of sound money. Another object I had in view was to secure a then much-needed addition to our currency, then being reduced by the compulsory much-needed addition to our currency then being reduced by the compulsory retirement of national bank notes on the payment of United States bonds. This would have been more wisely pro-vided by notes secured by both gold and silver, but SUCH A PROVISION could not then be secured. These rea sons fully justified the compromise could not then be secured. These reasons fully justified the compromise. But the great controlling reason why we agreed to it was that it was the only expedient by which we could defeat the free coinage of silver. Each of us regarded the measure proposed by the Senate as a practical repudiation of one-third of the debts of the United States and its people, as a substantial reduction of the wages of labor, as a debasement of our currency to a single silver standard, as the demonetization of gold and a sharp disturbance of all our bustness relations with the great commercial nations of the world. To defeat such a policy so pregnant with evil I was willing to buy the entire product of American silver mines at its gold value.

"And this was what we provided, guarded as far as we could. To accomplish our object we had to get the consent of the Republican representatives from the silver-producing States. This we could only do by buying the silver product of those States. It was a costly purchase. The silver we purchased is not worth as much as we provided is not worth as much as we paid for it; but this loss is insignificant compared to our gain by the defeat of the free coinage of silver. It is said there was no danger of free coinage—that the President would have vetoed it. We had no right to throw the responsibility upon him. Besides, his veto would leave the Bland act in force. We did not believe that this veto would leave the Bland act in force. We did not believe that this veto would dispel the craze that then existed for free coinage. Many people wanted the experiment of buying 4,500,000 onness of silver a month at its market value would be the best antidote against the purchase of all the silver of the world at one-third more than its market value.

"I never for a moment HAVE REGRETTED THE PASSAGE of the act of 1890, commonly called the

HAVE REGRETTED THE PASSAGE of the act of 1890, commonly called the Sherman act. As you know, I had no more to do with it than the other conmore to do with it than the other con-ferrees There is but one provision in it that I would change, and that is to strike out the compulsory purchase of a given quantity of silver, and give au-thority to the Secretary of the Treas-ury to buy silver builion at its market price when needed for subsidiary coin-age. Other provisions should be made for full legal tender United States notes supported by reserves of both nor tun legal tender United States notes, supported by reserves of both gold and silver and backed by the credit and wealth of the United States. But these are grave subjects for sepa-rate consideration.

"What we want now is relief from "What we want now is relief from further compulsory purchase of silver. We would gladly have reduced the amount to be purchased, and at a fixed time suspended the purchase, but this was refused by our confereres. Now that the great evil we have feared has, was refused by our conterfees. Now that the great evil we have feared has, I trust, passed away, we would willingly leave the amount of both gold and sliver to be coined or held in the treasury to the law of supply and demand. I assume that Republican senators and members who, after full conference, agreed to our report, will in the main vote for the repeal of the compulsory purchase of silver bullion, and hope that our political friends who felt bound by the local interests of their constituents to advocate the cause of free coinage, will be convinced by the experiment made that the only position we can occupy in the interest of the experiment made that the only position we can occupy in the interest of our constituents at large is one fixed standard of value and the use of both metals maintained at par with each other on a ratio as near as possible to their market value. Such a policy, I believe, is right. With reserves, both of gold and silver, in due proportions, we can maintain the entire body of our paper money, including coin, at par with each other. For one, I will never agree to the revival of State bank paper money, which cannot be made a legal tender, and which, on the first sign of alarm, will disappear or be lost in the hands of the holder.

"Very respectfully yours,
"JOHN SHERMAN."

GOSPEL MEETINGS.

Interest in the Services at Santa

Great interest is manifested in the gospel meetings now being held each afternoon and evening in a mammoth tent erected for the purpose at Santa Monica. The meetings were directly instituted by Rev. F. J. Culver of the Santa Monica Congregational Church, but the other religious denominations of Santa Monica have heartily co-operated with this clergyman and have done all that they can to make the meetings

Rev. F. L. Smith, the evangelist who Rev. F. L. Smith, the evangelist who is conducting the meetings, is a large-hearted gentleman and waxes extremely eloquent in his pathetic appeals to his audience to embrace the new life. He has a splendid fund of illustrations, which he uses with marked effect throughout his sermons, and he presents his subjects in a way that convinces his hearers with the truth of what he preaches.

The singing is a feature of the meetings that adds greatly to their interest. Besides a large chorus choir being in attendance, several soloists, who sing with a rare beauty and pathos, lend their trained voices to this branch of the service.

lend their trained voices to this branch of the service.

On Wednesday evening the largest audience since the meetings were started, was in attendence, every seat being filled. Mrs. Nellie Myers sang a solo entitled "Come Ye Disconsolate," and the evangelist moved the audience to tears by his beautiful rendering of the song "Some Mother's Boy." The subject of the evening's talk was "Give Me Thine Heart." The speaker said that this was a rightful demand of the scriptures, because the sinner's was not that this was a rightful demand of the scriptures, because the sinner's was not his own, but had been bought with a price, which was the blood of Christ. It was the basest ingratitude not to acknowledge the ownership of Christ, and the evangelist illustrated this thought by the story of an Ohio soldier, who during the war was a prisoner in Andersonville, and gave his exchange ticket three times to other dying soldiers that they might go to their homes, ticket three times to other dying sol-diers that they might go to their homes, while he willingly remained among the dying, that he might minister to their needs. The soldier took the place of these three men that they might live, and they would be ungrateful should they ever forget him. Christ did more than this. He took our place in judgment and bore the penalty of our guilt on Calvary. The demand of the text was an imperative demand and could not be evaded.

ends as shown. While considering fichus it is but natural to think of lace. Now, while a great many women can on seeing a piece of lace give its name correctly, piece of lace give its name correctly, few can explain the difference between the many kinds. Here are a few points on the technicalities of lace construction. When the foundation is all meshes of the same sort, the foundation his a "reseau." Where portions of the pattern, or "fleur," are connected by just twisted threads that run irregularly and hold the portions of the fleur together, those spaces are called "brides." Thus the "queen of laces," point d'Alencon, has reseau and brides in its foundation. There is another lace, "Bruges," which has a lot of its foundation worked out in brides. As to the difference between embroidery and lace, the former is made upon a solid foundation that already exists, and, foundation that already exists, and, after its design is traced, the threads of the foundation that are left between or the foundation that are left between are either out out or drawn away. Lace is formed upon a network foundation that is made at the same time the lace itself is made. In guipure the design is made by itself, and then the parts of is made by itself, and then the parts of it are connected by an irregular lattice-work. The difference between lace and guipure is then that the foundation of the latter is all brides, and that fleur is made to stand out from the foundation, at least in part of reseaus, and its fleur is worked in and on the meshes.

THE RESOLUTIONS.

At the concluding meeting of the Executive Committee the following res-olutions were spread upon the minutes: There are reasons for special congratulation as we close the assembly of 1899. This year has brought with it difficulties that have been unusual. Embarrassing obstacles have been more and greater even than we anticipated. The World's Fair has drawn heavily upon our resources in various ways, and the exceptionally distressing financial stringency has added materially to the embarrassment. It is an open secret that the management had many misgivings as they entered on the work of the year. All this only to emphasize the pleasure' with which we recall today the large average attendance attendance, the constantly increasing interest, and the exceedingly gratifying inancial results of the assembly; therefore,

Resolved, that we recognize this as one of the most helpful and successful assemblies ever held on these grounds.

Resolved, that in our judgment the time has come for a systematic canvass with a view of largely increasing the number of readers and circles in Southern California.

Resolved, that we tender hearty thanks to Prof. Taylor and his associates for faithful service, and for the very excellent music they have furnished us; to Misses Park and Fowler for valuable help rendered; to the Decorating Committee for faithful services under difficulties; to Miss Neally Stevens for the rare treat she has given

An Electrical Expert Talks About the Electric Franchise.

Cautions to Be Observed-Saturday's Foo and Bicycle Races-A Word from Justice Merriam-Local Brevities.

The Times reporter on Thursday had a talk with a prominent citizen of town, who is thoroughly versed in matters pertaining to electricity, to ascertain his views on the franchise which the Council will in all probability soon award to the Consolidated Electric Railway of Los Angeles for the executation and operation of an electric nstruction and operation of an electri construction and operation of an electric road over some of the principal streets of town. The gentleman referred to has no private interests to serve, and what he says is not intended in any way to discourage improvements of this nature, but simply to suggest some cautions which the Council may see it to incorporate in the franchise for the future protection of the city.

The gentleman hegan, by calling attentions of the country of the council may be suffered by a country of the country of the city.

may see fit to incorporate in the franchise for the future protection of the city.

The gentleman began by calling attention to the immensity of the new power and its future possibilities. "All electric franchises now granted," he said, "are given almost in entire ignorance of the condition and needs of the future. It is legislation in the dark. What we do know is that electricity is a power which can be transferred to a distance almost without a loss and which can be readily distributed and converted into other forms of force; we know that it will jurnish directly or indirectly the greater part of the mechanical and chemical forces, of the means of transportation and intelligent communication, and of the light and much of the heat of the near future. Provision must be made for distributing a force so universal to every house and workshop in a city. Whoever obtains a monopoly of the distribution of electricity in a city, will gain control of no inconsiderable part of its industry and domestic facilities. Such distribution in the public streets should, therefore, be considered as a whole, not with reference to a single grant. No franchise should be granted except for the shortest possible time. No franchise should be exclusive in terms or effect, and the city should reserve absolute control of all details affecting the safety of life and property." clusive in terms or effect, and the city should reserve absolute control of all de tails affecting the safety of life and prop should reserve absolute control of an details affecting the safety of life and property."

When the proposed franchise last came up for discussion in the Council chamber.
Trustee Cox thought that a clause should be inserted to prevent the possibility of trains of five or six cars being run over the road. The idea seemed so preposterous that everybody laughed. Referring to this feature of the case, the expert interviewed by the reporter said: "A street railway is a structure wholly distinct in its character and uses from the railroads between distant places. Already electric locomotives are moving the heaviest trains. The electrict railroad is already the equivalent of the steam railroad. An unlimited franchise for an electric road through the streets of the city is equivalent to an unlimited right of way for a steam railroad.
An electric street railway franchise needs to be limited to passenger. traffic, to single cars, and to speed consistent with safety.
Trains of cars need to be specifically forbidden, to preserve the essential character tistic of the street railway and to protect the public in their use of the streets. No connection should be allowed with outside lines which will convert a city street into part of a great through railroad." Per-connection should be allowed with cutside lines which will convert a city street into part of a great through railroad." Perhaps Trustee Cox's suggestion was not so funny, after all.

"The city," continued the gentleman, "should reserve absolute control of, the means for distributing electricity-in its streets for all purposes, including the presence or absence of poles, their height, material, and distance apart, character and insulation of electric currents. In franchises, even for a few years, provision should be made for dealing with increased electric power. This is only the beginning of the conversion back from electricity, and the conversion back from electricity, and the conversion back from electricity into the multiple forms of force required by modern altiple forms of force required by modern multiple forms of force required by modern life and industry.

"There is a question of justice as well as of finance, which is also to be considered. The electric franchise of trifling value today may become of untold value within a few years. There is a limit to our right to sew years. There is a finit to our right to give away the opportunities and unknown values of the future. Ten years is long enough for any electric franchise that can be intelligently granted today. Fifty years is giving away the sun and the moon. It is needless to add that we are all equally interested in the inauguration of the electricalized under conditions, which are safe railroad under conditions which are safe to the public, present and future."

JUSTICE MERRIAM RISES TO EXPLAIN.

Justice J. H. Merriam has submitted for publication the following statement rela-tive to the recent trial before Judge Shaw, In which City Recorder Rossiter figured as the defendant:

the which city heroteer mossiest agarea as the defendant:

"Please permit me to say a few words on the subject of the Recordership, as the spinion of Judge Shaw did not cover the whole ground, but was confined, properly if course, to the case as submitted to him. The attorney for the people relied upon one point only, viz., that the Board of Trustees had no general power of appointment in this case. Judge Shaw does not seem to agree with him on that point; and upon all the other points in the case only one side was presented to the court. An error in the statement of facts presented by de-

The errone-ous statement was to the effect that I had refused to serve as Recorder, unless a salary of $25 per month in addition to the fees was provided. The truth is correctly shown by the official record of the City Clerk. I simply refused to serve without a salary. Judge Shaw says: It is the duty of the trustees to select one of the justices for city recorder. Section $55 of the Municipal Corporation Act makes it their duty also to fix a salary for the clerk, treasurer, marshal and recorder. If a proper showing had been made to Judge Shaw, I think he would have said that the Board of Trustees had no "right to disregard either of these duties." Board of Trustees had no right to distre-gard either of these duties.

"My friends who voted for me for Justice of the Peace, and who wanted me to be the Recorder, may wonder why I stood by and permitted so one-sided a presentation of the case. My answer is, it was not my case, but I made timely protest to the attorney for the people against the erroneous state-ment above referred to, and it was disre-garded. Besides, the defendant's attorney processing the process of the court, on garded. Besides, the defendant's attorney objected to my saying a word in court, on the ground that I was not a party to the action nor employed as attorney in it. I protest that I have not shirked my duty; that I have not asked anything of the Board of Trustees, except what the law plainly makes it their duty to do; that I have not acted in an unreasonable nor improper way, nor in an arbitrary nor spiteful nor avaricious spirit."

A Plea for the Maintenance of the Fair Exhibit.

A Sensible Letter from Manager Joplin-The Display Should Be Continued as a Personals.

J. C. Joplin, manager of the Orange county World's Fair exhibit at Chicago, was heard from again yesterday, in reference to the maintenance of the exhibit until the close of the great exposition. He speaks plainly and sensibly, from a business standpoint, as follows: "Not on my own account, as, personally, I am ready to go home any time, would I hate to see the county withdrawn or have her exhibit unattended, but it would be like one of our merchants closing his doors and going fishing when business is brisk. We have our stock on hand, and trade is good, and with a small item of expense, compared to first cost, we can stay in the swim. I look upon this exhibit more as a business enterprise than I fear any of our people do. We are simply displaying our wares to attract the attention of consumers, and invite the competition of labor and capital, that our resources may be more fully developed and our business ex-ly developed and our business exdied.

If our people would take a business we of this matter, and instead of its ning, would make necessary additions the last two months, that a credite exhibit could be sustained in the me way that a merchant would be nefited in his business, we would exdo our usefulness.

I have never looked upon this exhibit simply a display of brilliancy, from lich we might expect no returns, and lib be the worst fooled man you ever wif it turns out to be the case; but ve always, and still believe, this our e opportunity of our lives, and all the ner schemes we have had to invite mpared to this. Yet, with my convicns as deep-seated as they are, no one lib e more ready to obey those in auority than myself.

I have been a little malarious, but better now."

Officials of the Southern Pacific Railway Company have lately felt called upon to deny, more or less emphatically, the growing rumors of how that company felt the financial stringency. The dam was found amply strong for the big strain. Water is now running over it eight inches. Water is now nearly ready for sale. The Tucson Citizen says of it: "His annexation sen ments find no favor in Arizona. As a Territory we are not looking for annexation to anything outside of individual Statehood. AN INDIAN SOCIETY EVENT.

Probably the most important event in Indian society of the White Mountain Reservation was the marriage by civil rites of "Nosey" San Carlos B 5 to Guadalupe, a Mojavé girl, Nosey, who is intelligent—and talks good English, is an imitator of the white man. Probate Judge Allison of Globe was prevalled on to perform the service. The judge says the comely Guadalupe was robed in spotless white, and her long flowing hair bedecked with flowers, while her lord, Nosey, was scrumptiously gotten up in a brand new suit of blue, with all the appendages of a modern swell, including a white necktie, gold watch and chain and with his boots polished. An unfortunate sequal to the wedding was the burning of Nosey's house and stabbing of his fine, mare, by a jealous squaw with whom he had been on intimate terms. She took advantage of the bride and groom's absence from home on the evening of the marriage to get revenge, but was detected and captured, and now languishes in the guardhouse a: San Carlos.

RALIROAD ASSESSMENTS. AN INDIAN SOCIETY EVENT.

RAILROAD ASSESSMENTS. The Board of Supervisors of Apache county will attend the next meet-ing of the Board of Equalization for ing of the Board of Equalization for the purpose of asking that body to allow the assessment of the Atlantic and Pacific Raliroad Company to stand at the same figure as last year, which is $5000 per mile...The board is satisfied that any attempt to collect a higher assessment will bring about a law suit which will take years to settle. The railroad has refused to pay the tax levied by the foard, and the county, it is claimed, is not in a financial condition to go to law to collect the tax; neither can it get along under the Harrison act unless the tax is paid. It is also stated that all four counties of the north will take some action, as they do not deem it wise to raise the assessment on railroads already operated in view of the law which was passed

FORGER MUNROE.

The Supreme Court Denies His Appeal.

Other Decisions Received Yesterday by Deputy Clerk

A Supreme Court decision was re-ceived yesterday by Deputy Clerk Ses-non in the case of the People, respond-ent, vs. George Munroe, appellant. The defendant, who was a well-known ac-countant, and at times was employed by the grand larv, to expert books of countant, and at times was employed by the grand jury to expert books of county officers, was convicted last November before Judge Smith, in the Superior Court, of forgery- and sentenced to seven years in San Quentin. From this judgment, and an order denying a new trial, the defendant appealed to the Supreme Court on the ground that the original information filed against him did not state facts which constitute a public offense. Defendant's attorneys contended that the instrument alleged to have been forged would, if it had been genuine, be void on its face, as the authorities have repeatedly held that the assignment of a public officer's salary is invalid. On that ground, it was claimed that the signing of another's name to such a document cannot be construed as forgery. To offset this, it has been asserted that public school teachers were not public officers, and, therefore, the assignment of such certificates could not be considered as those of public officers.
